PREFACE

The second volume of the Descriptive Catalogue of Manuscripts deposited in Shri Raghunath Temple Library at Jammu is being published long after the first volume of the said catalogue was published in 1967. The difficulties in getting trained compositors and many other factors over which neither the Editor nor the press had any control, considerably contributed to the delay in the publication of this volume. We also regret to record the sudden passing away of the proprietor of the press due to accidental death. He was mainly responsible for the efficient printing of complicated Sanskrit and other works involving different typography for which the Veda Vidya Mudranalaya has been well known for nearly half a century of its existence, first as the Samarth Bharat Press and later as the Veda Vidya Mudranalaya. We, hope that the further volume or volumes of the Catalogue would see the light of the day without any delay.

The present volume of the Catalogue comprises the description of about 1626 manuscripts pertaining to ten sections viz., (i) Saṁgīta, (9 mss.), (ii) Kāma-sūtra. (3 mss.), (iii) Alaṁkāra, (133 mss.), (iv) Kāvya, (222 mss.), (v) Nāṭaka, (52 mss.). (vi) Dharmaśāstra, (642 mss.), (vii) Mīmāṁsā, (141 mss.) and (viii) Vedānta. (322 mss.), (ix) Sāṁkhya (16 mss.) and (x) Yoga (28).

All these sections possess some very rare and valuable manuscripts. It will also be seen that the Dharmaśāstra section claims a major portion of the manuscript material in the Temple library and next in order is the section of Vedānta which consists of 392 manuscripts. The Kāvya section is also fairly represented by as many as 222 manuscripts. This tends to show the interest of our predecessors in Sanskrit learning. All the important manuscripts belonging to the different branches of Sanskrit literature and available in the Temple library will be noticed in the Introduction of the final volume of the Catalogue.

Before concluding this Preface I have to express my thanks to all those who have been responsible in the compilation of this catalogue by me. I am grateful to His Highness Dr. Karansinghji, Maharaja of Jammu and Kashmir, for entrusting the work to me. I have also to thank the staff of Shri Raghunath Temple Library, Jammu, who helped and assisted me in the preparation of the catalogue and lastly my thanks are also due to the staff and workers of the Veda Vidya Mudranalaya, Poona, for the execution of the printing of the catalogue requiring varied kinds of types and diacritic signs.
